Budget Session Of Legislature Opens on Feb. 3

By VINCENT THOMAS
 Assemblyman, 68th District
 It scarcely seems that last summer's hectic special session is over, so the nearness of our 1964 Budget session is a little surprising to many. As required by the Constitution, the Legislature will convene on Monday, Feb. 3. The Governor is expected to submit his Budget Message not later than Feb. 5. We will then recess for 30 days, and return about March 2. During this recess, the Senate Committee on Finance and the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means will study the Budget item by item.
 Department fiscal officers, the budgeteers from the Department of Finance, and our Legislative Analyst and his staff have been laboring over the proposed expenditure program for fiscal 1964-65 since early Fall. On the basis of preliminary estimates, it appears that we will be confronted with a Budget Bill of close to $3.5 billion for the new year. This would be an increase of roughly $200 million, or some six per cent over the $3.3 billion total for the current year.

GENERAL FUND expenditures next year are anticipated to exceed $2.1 billion, against which a fund surplus of $102 million will be credited. No need for new taxes is foreseen until the 1965-66 fiscal year.
 It goes almost without saying that our next state budget will again be the largest in the nation, which is nothing much to boast about. Californian's demand a high level of state government service, and so must pay for it. But that service, judged by accepted standards in any field, equals or surpasses that of any other state.
 It is also a hard inescapable fact that the Legislature has control over only about one-third of the total proposed expenditure program. The remaining two-thirds consists of "fixed charges," imbedded in the Constitution or statutes for such functions as education, welfare, and highways.
 IT IS ALSO a fact about state finances which cannot be overlooked that about 55 per cent of the state budget is allocated to counties, cities, and districts for purposes ranging from school support, to mental health, to streets and roads. This sharing of the state's broader tax resources helps equalize the burden on the average citizen, but it has its problems. Especially strong pressure for upping the state's share of school costs to the tune of another $100 million annually is certain to be a major factor at the session.
 While the pulling and hauling between the various departments and the budget people is practically over as of now, the final total of the request to be submitted by the Governor is still subject to considerable change. Decisions as to major items of capital outlay may affect millions of dollars, one way or the other.

Regional Park District Would Impose New Taxes

Taxpayers in Torrance and surrounding communities will face a boost of up to 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation if a plan to create a regional park in the Santa Monica Mountains is successful.
 This warning was sounded by the Santa Monica Mountains Landowners' Assn. in a letter addressed to the Torrance City Council this week. The association opposes the park plan because of the proposal that a new governmental agency, with the power to tax, be created.
 Torrance City Councilmen, along with councilmen from Inglewood, Redondo Beach, Manhattan Beach, and El Segundo have adopted a resolution opposing the park on the same grounds.
 THE SANTA MONICA Mountains Regional Park Assn. has asked the Board of Supervisors to call an election on the issue of forming the district. Boundaries of the special district extend north to the county line and south to the south Torrance city line. The district includes all of Torrance, Harbor City, Wilmington, and San Pedro, but excludes Palos Verdes Estates, Rolling Hills Estates, Rolling Hills, and most of Lomita.
 Such a park district would be given the power to levy property taxes of up to five cents per $100 valuation, and an additional five cents per $100 valuation for the first five years.
 Opponents of the park district hope to kill the plan at a hearing before the Board of Supervisors. The board can approve the plan and call for the election, or it can halt further proceedings by turning down the plan.

Dr. Downey to Head JA Area Fund Raising

Dr. Robert J. Downey will serve as Southwest district fund raising chairman for Junior Achievement.
 The money raised locally goes toward continued operation and expansion of the Junior Achievement program which provides teenagers an opportunity to actually organize and operate miniature "corporations" with the guidance of adult volunteer advisors.
 Downey is corporate director of personnel administration with North American Aviation, Inc.

Insurance Rate Not to Change

Rates charged for the insurance on Cal-Vet homes will remain unchanged, according to Joseph M. Farber, California's director of Veterans Affairs.
 This will be the case even though most Cal-Vet homes would normally come under the price range affected by the boost which was announced by the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau.

Girl Scouts To Plant 30 Trees Here

Girl Scouts from the South Torrance area will plant 30 trees in the Civic Center on Saturday, Jan. 18, as part of the Torrance Beautiful Commission's efforts to enhance the Civic Center.
 The scouts will plant 30 trees of 10 different varieties. The trees will be cared for by the Girl Scout troops until nature takes over.
 The program was arranged by Mrs. Neil Silence and Mrs. H. A. Cloyd for the Girl Scouts, and Kenny Uyeda, educational coordinator for the Gardena Valley Gardeners Assn.

MAYOR ALBERT ISEN has proclaimed the day as Girl Scout Tree Planting Day in Torrance. He and other civic officials will attend the ceremonies, to be held at 1 p.m.
 The program is part of the Torrance Beautiful Commission's efforts to improve the beauty of the city. Girl Scouts participating in the program will receive credit toward their merit badges in conservation. Alternating two troops each week, the scouts will water the trees by buckets until they become well established.
